Robotics In VR Features Key:

- Gyro control - Free movement. Gyro are one of the mechanics that are slow enough that they've become a mechanic within video games.

- Gyro interact better with other gameplay mechanics such as movement, jumping, hit points, and so on.
 - HORIZONTAL ACCELERATION - I made the world of GyroBlade set on a rotating platform. Pushing during jumps, avoiding obstacles, etc...felt much better.

Try 'n Cry is a first-person adventure, in a thrilling setting, where the player is involved in an esoteric path in spite of him. For this reason, he will have to deal with evil creatures, which protect the mystery behind the path. This adventure encourages a stealth-oriented gameplay in order to elude the creatures' attacks on one hand, and on the other one it offers several complex enigmas to be solved which allow the player to find out the real nature and the ancient story of the Curse. Plot This Prologue of the main adventure - which takes place in 1929 - Andrew Miller is going to complete his esoteric path: indeed, three years before, he started to investigate about what happened to his brother Mason, which - in 1925 - was involved in several evil rituals, based on ancient Greek Mith legends. Thus, Andrew decided to leave England in order to reach those locations of Magna Graecia where the path begins. After few months - in December, 1926 - he finds his brother Mason, horribly dead while trying to solve some kind of enigma within an ancient Sicilian castle, killed by some evil creature. Thus, Andrew chooses to follow and to complete the esoteric path in order to free all the corrupted regions, so that no one else could suffer and die anymore because of that. This way, his brother's death has not been in vain. Major League Gladiators is a multiplayer shooter featuring two distinct classes and up to 6 players in a lobby. We've decided to use the potential of the room-scale VR model to create cooperative gameplay and an immersive shooter experience where players are concerned with each other. This is reflected in the player model which was animated in the VR environment during the production process. So far we've been developing the game in two parts: First there's the tutorial which lets you learn the necessary skills and gameplay mechanics in a friendly game. And then there's the actual game, where you'll find a different setting which is the obstacle course arena. We've designed the arena to give you as much action as the tutorial has to offer so you can really get the feeling of what it's like to use the guns from both classes. The primary goal of the project is to make a VR shooter in which the coop aspect is brought to the forefront. Multiplayer is the second priority. We want you to feel like you're in a friendly fight and that you can support each other. Design Goals We've identified three design goals for the game: - Immersive: We want the players to feel immersed in the environment and experience the action. This is where the roomscale feature comes in. We wanted to make sure that players feel like they're in the VR room with each other. Player models were animated as much as possible so that it feels like they are actually there. - Enjoyable: We want to create fun for the players and make sure that we keep this in mind when we choose our gameplay mechanics. This is why cooperative gameplay is a major part of the game. - Fun: We've also identified fun for the players as an important design goal. This is why the game is also a competitive shooter that allows the players to play solo or together. We want players to have fun while playing the game and that's why we've introduced the heart meter, which we've designed to keep track of the player's health. - Realistic: Lastly we wanted to create a realistic experience. This means that we want to create the same feelings that you have when you play any other multiplayer shooter. Each gun comes with it's own unique and realistic feel that we've tried to implement. In Conclusion: We've identified three key design goals
