My advice to you to improve your writing is to develop effective writing skills NOW. I cannot stress this enough. You will write in some form or . You can't just expect your children or readers to write like you. They can not. They don't know how to write. When you write, you must learn. If you don't study, you will write the way you write now. Your next step in this direction is to give the kids some exercises so they can practice writing. I suggest to them this: write using only the first 6 letters of your first name, as well as your last name, including your first name.
