If the license is not activated, you will be unable to use VCDS-Lite. Please use your email program to save the attachment as shown in the examples below. If your email program does not display the file as an attachment, reply to the email and ask for further instructions. Save the attached Activation file to your C: Ross-Tech VCDS-Lite folder as shown below: Make sure the Save as type: field at the bottom shows All Files. Consult the documentation for your specific email program for assistance with saving attachments. Verifying the Activation When you return to the About screen, the License Status should read Not Fully Registered. If VCDS-Lite remains as Not Fully Registered, you should check the first field of your Serial Number against the name of the VCA file. If the first field is incorrect, you are not fully activated. The most common cause is to have copied the activation code from the Serial Number to the form. In this case, the system will not accept a different code. Please insert the correct code from the serial number into the form. If the license is not activated, you will be unable to use VCDS-Lite.
