IntelliJ IDEA Mac is a cross-platform IDE developed by JetBrains. With the advent of distributed computing, there exists a need to enable a user to obtain a file from a computing device, store the file in a data storage device, and later retrieve the file from the data storage device. In many instances, the user may be able to obtain a physical copy of the file and physically store the file on the data storage device. However, such a method of storing a file is cumbersome and may be difficult to locate and retrieve the file. Further, the use of such a method may create a situation in which the file is lost. In certain embodiments, a user may send a message to another user requesting that the user retrieve and/or store a file. In certain embodiments, the user may transmit the message using a messaging platform, which may be either a private, for example, a corporate, e-mail client, a web-based email client, or a public internet based service such as Facebook™ or Twitter™. The message, which may be initially referred to herein as a “request,” may be directed to a desired recipient. Once the recipient receives the request, the recipient may have the opportunity to retrieve and/or store the file. This process may be referred to herein as a “request-and-response” process. In certain embodiments, the request and response process may be viewed as a two-way communications process. Such a process may be referred to
